

POIPU WHALEWATCH SEA KAYAK

Paddle. Snorkel. Marvel.

Tour available mid-September through mid-May

Join us as we take you along Kauai's Scenic South Shore from Poipu to Port Allen. This tour is eight miles long, in what typically become rough seas by late morning. This segment of the coastline holds some of Kauai's most secluded bays and beaches, and we'll make surf landings on three different, seldom-seen beaches. After launching from Kukui'ula Small Boat Harbor we pass the famous Spouting Horn, a remarkable salt-water blowhole. After about 45 minutes, we'll surf our kayaks up on the beach at Lawa'i Kai, the exquisitely beautiful site of Queen Emma's summer home. As we have gotten an early start, you may be ready for a pick-me-up. Your guide will bring out a jug of hot coffee and muffins for you to enjoy as you stroll the beach in the golden morning light. We continue downwind, past the white sand beach and barrier reef zone near Palama's Point. As we paddle further, we'll be looking for interesting marine life, such as spinner dolphins, honu (sea turtles) and migratory humpback whales. After seven miles of paddling, we're ready for lunch. For that, we land at a special place to relax and eat, a big protected bay known as Wahi'awa. Here you can comb the quarter of a mile crescent-shaped sandy paradise, play in the water, and snorkel the fringes of the bay. Meanwhile, your guide will lay out a tasty picnic lunch with a scrumptious cookie that may inspire a nap, which is fully endorsed. Around mid-afternoon after another brief paddle, our driver will arrive to whisk us away on our return to the Poipu resort area.
